he Old Reliable Family Medicine!

Has been introduced and sold

FOR THIRTY-ONE YEARS!
FROM
1840. TO 1871.
Perry Davis' Pain Killer,

Has been tested in every variety of climate, and by almost every nation known to Americans. It is the almost constant companion and inestimable friend of the missionary and the traveler, on sea and land, and no one should travel on our LAKES OR RIVERS WITHOUT IT.

☞ Pain Killer was the first, and is the only permanent pain reliever.

Since the PAIN KILLER was first introduced, and met with such unsurpassed sale, many LINIMENTS, RELIEFS, PANACEAS, and other REMEDIES have been offered to the public, but not one of them has ever attained the truly enviable standing of the Pain Killer.

☞ Why is this so? ☜

It is because Davis' PAIN KILLER is what it claims to be, a Reliever of Pain.

ITS MERITS ARE UNSURPASSED.

If you are suffering from Internal Pain, Twenty or Thirty drops in a little water will almost instantly cure you. There is nothing to equal it. In a few moments it cures Colic, Cramps, Spasms, Heart Burn, Diarrhea, Dysentery, Flux, Wind in the Bowels, Sour Stomach, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache.

In sections of country where Fever and Ague prevails, there is no remedy held in greater esteem. Persons traveling should keep it by them. A few drops, in water, will prevent sickness or bowel troubles from change of water. From foreign countries the call for PAIN KILLER is great. It is found to cure Cholera, when all other Remedies fail. When used externally, as a Liniment, nothing gives quicker ease in Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Stings from Insects, and Scalds. It removes the fire and the wound heals like ordinary sores. Those suffering with Rheumatism, Gout, or Neuralgia, if not a positive cure, they find the Pain Killer gives them relief when no other remedy will. It gives instant relief from Aching Teeth. From 1840, to this day 1871 (Thirty-one years), PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER has had no rival.

Every Housekeeper should keep it at hand, to apply it on the first attack of any pain. It will give satisfactory relief and save hours of suffering. Do not trifle with yourself by testing untried remedies. Be sure you call for, and get the genuine Pain Killer, as many worthless nostrums are attempted to be sold on the great reputation of this valuable medicine.

☞ Directions accompany each bottle.

Price 25cts. 50cts. and $1.00 per Bottle.

McCLELLAN'S LETTER TO TAMMANY

Honesty, Patriotism, Good Sense, and Genuine Democracy.

Below we publish in full the letter of General McClellan read at the grand jubilee of the Tammany Society of New York on the 4th instant. A wiser platform than he recommends for the party in the approaching Presidential election cannot be devised.—It is a platform of honesty, patriotism, good sense, justice, and political foresight:

DEAR SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the invitation to meet with the Tammany Society upon the occasion of the celebration of the approaching Independence Day.

I regret that circumstances will not permit me to be in the city then.

At a time like the present it is right to express once more my deep and abiding interest in the great principles advocated by the Democratic party; and, remembering the former relations between the party and myself, perhaps it will not seem officious if, in accordance with your request, I proffer a few words to those who honored me so highly in a season of difficulty.

Although I have retired from public life it has been impossible to avoid forming opinions upon public affairs, and what I have to say must be regarded simply as the sentiments of a private citizen.

The Presidential campaign, so soon to be opened, is destined to be one of the most important of all that have been conducted.

I trust that every Democrat will recognize the magnitude of the issues at stake—no less, it would seem, than the very existence of the free institutions our fathers gave us, the true foundations of peace, happiness, and prosperity—to bequeath which to our children we should be ready to make any honorable sacrifice.

I trust that when the moment for action arrives there will be found none in the Democratic ranks who will for a moment hesitate to sacrifice personal advantage or private feeling for the public good; for our object should not be a mere party triumph, but the rescue of the country from the hands of those with whom personal aggrandizement and party ends outweigh all reverence for the vital spirit of our institutions and desire for the real good of the entire nation.

I trust that our leaders will clearly see which of the issues that have so long agitated the country are irrevocably settled, and that we shall not be called upon to contend for a corpse.

Let us leave behind us the dead issues of the past, and look only to the present and the future.

Slavery is dead—dead let it remain forever, and let no one disturb its grave.

The negro has the right to vote—let him keep it; but strive to educate him to fitness for the high privilege conferred upon him. Show him who his real friends are, and we will eventually turn in our favor the weapon so chrefully forged for our destruction.

Let us hope that the enunciation of the financial principles of the party will be so clear that no one can cast the shadow of a doubt upon our intentions as to fulfilling in the broadest sense all the obligations of the nation; rather than indulge in abstract discussions as to the meaning of this or that obligation, let us advocate, and when in power pursue, such a policy as will make the paper dollar as good as the gold dollar, so that the question will practically settle itself.

To secure this result it must be clearly understood throughout the world that every dollar of the principal and interest of the national debt will be fully paid when due; the expenditures of the general government must be confined to the sums requisite to meet the interest upon the debt, and the expenses necessary to maintain the efficiency and dignity of the government; the sums drawn from this generation by the tariff and internal taxation should be limited to the purposes just mentioned, and the effort to reproduce prematurely the principal of the debt at the expense of the general prosperity of the nation should be abandoned.

We have borne the burden of the recent war, and should be called upon to do no more than meet the full interest upon the debt; another generation more wealthy and numerous than this can readily take care of the principal.

The issues of the present and the future are distinct enough, and afford us the most ample and best battle-field for the approaching contest.

Universal amnesty and suffrage; the preservation of the rights of the States as guaranteed by the letter and true spirit of the Constitution, once held so sacred; the preservation of individual liberty; the inviolability of the right of the habeas corpus; the maintenance of the purity of the relative powers of the three great branches of the general government; strict economy in the administration of the government; the relief of the business interests of the country from the ruinous pressure of all unequal, ill-arranged, and unnecessary burdens; these constitute some of the main issues upon which we may confidently hope to rest our chances of success.

With the hope that the principles published to the world ninety-five years ago may throughout all time guide the actions and command the reverence of the American people, and apologizing for having trespassed so long upon your time and patience, I am, with great respect, very truly yours,

GEORGE B. McCLELLAN.

AN EMPHATIC RETURN.—Judge Brice sent an attachment from the Spencer Circuit Court for a lady in Washington county who was wanted as a witness. In due time he received the process back with the following return upon it: "I did'nt get to see her untell last night. She says she won't come. She will die first. I know she is in a h—l of a bad fix."—[Lebanon Standard.

KNOTT ON HARLAN.

The Radical Candidate For Governor Charmingly Duluthed.

HON. J. Proctor Knott, in a a speech at Pembroke Chrristian county, on the 4th instant, thus paid his respects to Gen. Harlan:

Kentucky must furnish the vanguard of the Democracy in this contest. She has ever been true to her prestige; having ever performed her duty, true and faithfully, she will do it in this crisis. If, said he, the approaching election involved no more than the mere expression of a personal preference between the candidates presented for our suffrages, I should not have a single word to say. For while I am aware that no eulogy of mine could lend a solitary ray of additional lustre to the bright escutcheon of Gov. Leslie, I would scorn to stain a single leaf in the glittering chaplet that entwines the brow of General Harlan. (Applause.)

I have known him long and well as a most genial gentleman, a profound lawyer, and a scholar of varied and distinguished attainments, and taken all in all, a man of whom I am personally fond. As a public man I am free to acknowledge, that he has perhaps the advantage of Governor Leslie. Renowned alike as a warrior and a statesman, his career has been such as to dazzle the enraptured vision of every beholder with the associated splendors of a thousand brilliant achievements, which constitute the brightest gems in the diadem of his country's glory. [Great Applause.] His military record especially is a theme upon which every patriot must delight to dwell. [Applause.]

I confess I can not recur to it, without feeling every fiber and tissue of my being tingle with a thrill of martial ardor. [Laughter and applause.] I remember how his impatient blade leaped from its scabbard, when the first notes of civil discord echoed along the lowering horizon of 1861, or how it gleamed like a meteor along his terrible pathway, as he swept like a tornado to the dread carnival of death. The awful sublimity of his going forth to immolate himself upon the blood-stained altar of patriotism will haunt me to my dying day. [Applause.] It reminded me of Ossian's discription of Cuthullin, as he rushed in the sound of his arms like the terrible spirit of Loda, when he comes in the roar of a thousand storms, scattering battles from his eyes! [Immense Applause.] What deeds of prowess he might have won upon the gory field, what hecatombs of slaughtered rebels might have gone down beneath the biting edge of his trenchant blade, had he ever succeeded in meeting his country's foes "upon the perilous ridge of battle," the pen of history will never tell; for ere he had an opportunity to quench his brand in the blood of traitors, he was called from the paths of martial glory to the more arduous duties of civil life. [Great laughter.] I know we much needed his distinguished services in the cabinet. I am willing to admit that there was not another lawyer in all the length and breadth of the Commonwealth, from Maysville to Mill's Point, who was capable of discharging the distinguished functions of the office of the Attorney General [laughter], yet I can not but deplore the inexorable necessity which compelled him to quit the tented field and bid farewell forever to "all the pomp and circumstance of glorious war." In fact, I consider the resignation of General Harlan as the direst calamity that could have befallen our beloved country under the circumstances [laughter], for I am satisfied that had the Confederate leaders been convinced that there was no other means of escaping a direct conflict with Gen. Harlan upon the open field, they would have laid down their arms at once. [Renewed laughter.] But when Lee, and Johnson, and Beauregard ascertained that Gen. Harlan had resigned, they plucked up fresh courage and determined to prosecute the war to the bitter end. [Laughter.]

It can, however, be said of Gen. Harlan, as it can of but few military heroes of equal prowess and renown, that when his tear-dimmed eye rested for the last time upon the war-worn forms of his command, when he bid them a last long adieu upon the tented field, he had the proud satisfaction of knowing that he had never led them into danger in his life. (Prolonged laughter and applause.

But while I could dwell forever with increasing raptures upon this theme, I would not withhold a fitting tribute to his equally brilliant and extraordinary career as a statesman. Endowed by nature with a genius capable of embracing in a single grasp every theory of governmental science his public life has been a perfect political kaleidoscope, exhibiting in every conceivable variety of combination, every principle and every tenet of every party that has had an existence on this continent from the hour of his birth down to the present moment. Far back in the days of his college youth, he was a more brilliant exemplification of the principles of the old line Whig party than either the godlike Webster or the immortal Clay. In 1856 the instrument revolved and behold all the resplendent glories of Know-Nothingism in all the gorgeous sheen of a thousand glittering spangles. In 1860 it revolved again; and lo! the simple but comprehensive creed of Bell and Everett—a triad of diamonds—"the Union, the Constitution, and the enforcement of the laws." In 1861 it turned again, and there were all the old family jewels of the Democracy blazing forth in a flood of effulgence eradiating the entire Commonwealth. In 1866 the machine turned again, and the dim outline of the Third Party fell feebly upon the vision. In 1868 occurred another revolution of the protean table and there were all the multiplied horrors of Radicalism in all the intricate mazes of chaotic confusion.[Applause.) What will appear when it shall make another revolution is beyond the power of my feeble imagination to conceive. Perhaps the instrument will explode like a tremendous meteroic corruscation, when millions of many colored sparks will linger a moment on the midnight sky, and then leave the universe in total and eternal darkness. [Tremendous Applause.]

I would like to linger upon this delightful theme! I would like to pay a fitting tribute to the distinguished services and high renown of his illustrious colleague, Colonel Thomas who I understand was a brilliant ornament to that very efficient arm of the military service known as the home guard. [laughter]; who I understand took a solemn oath never to leave the country, except in case of invasion; but your patience forbids. [Laughter and applause.]

Republican Policy and Management

The Chicago Times illustrates the workings of the Internal Revenue under Republican management, by a few illustrations:

It is a law that tobacco may be put up in boxes, packages, tubs or pails, duly stamped. If a man buys a box of cigars, he is liable to arrest, and a heavy fine if he uses the empty cigar box for any other purpose. If he buys a tub, or a pail of tobacco, duly stamped, and after the tobacco is consumed, uses the pail for other purpose, or gives it away, or sells it, he is liable to arrest, a heavy fine and imprisonment.

Not long since, a grocery dealer in Mendota, Ill., went out from his store, and left it in charge of his little son till he should return. A man entered and bought a few dozen of eggs. Looking about the little store asked he of the boy:

"What can I carry them home in? Have you a basket, or box, or something to lend me?"

Nothing could be found till an old pail, from which the tobacco had been sold, turned bottom up and used for a stool or seat, was discovered. Said the man:

"Here is an old pail; it will do to carry them in, and to water horses from."

"All right," said the little boy; "I guess it ain't worth much; you can have it for fifteen cents."

The man paid fifteen cents for the old pail, put the eggs therein, and went home. Soon after the merchant was arrested and taken to Chicago before a revenue officer, who heard the story and suffered him to go on payment of a hundred dollars. A sneaking, informer, who learned of the disposal of the pail, got fifty dollars; some one else had the rest.

Again:

Not long since a merchant in Morriston, Illinois, for a year confined to his bed with a non-healing abscess in his side, left his store in the care of a clerk. In the store were several boxes of cigars, on which proper stamps were affixed. By law or enactment, these old stamps, duly paid for, became worthless on a certain date, when it was the business of the merchant to purchase, affix, and cancel new stamps to these boxes. Flat on his back where he had lain in pain for months, he knew nothing of the law, or duties forced upon him—no more did his clerk.

A sneak in the revenue service called at the store one day, looked at things generally, saw these boxes of cigars yet unsold, thirteen in number, and took them with him to Sterling, Illinois, where they were duly confiscated. The sick merchant, who had paid for proper stamps on these boxes once, was fined $100.

Not long since, at Freeport, Illinois, a pimp of an informer from Chicago, wandering to follow his damnable profession, entered a store and looked about for some time. At last he found an old bottle of pepper-sauce from which the stamp and label had fallen and lay on the shelf. He bought the bottle—went his way.

Two days after the merchant was arrested by an officer from Chicago, taken to that city and fined seventy-five dollars and costs—half of which went to the loyal informer, when in fact, in intent and in intention he had wronged no one.

City vs. Country Papers.

From the Danville Advocate.

Take, for example the Cincinnati Weekly Gazette. That paper charges for advertising, twenty-five cents a line, small type measure, for each insertion. A column contains 333 lines, worth at this rate, $83 22 per week, or for fifty-two weeks, $4,327 44! The country paper can get but $100 per column for a whole year! Can you now understand why the city papers can be furnished for one dollar? A country paper could well afford to give his entire edition away provided he could secure a few columns of advertising at city rates.

The reading matter which appears in the city weeklies is simply a rehash of that which has appeared in the daily during the preceding week, and the labor for setting the type being paid for its appearance in the daily; why of course, it costs nothing to transfer it to the weekly. A city editor can kill two birds with one stone—a country publisher cannot. Every line that appears in a country paper, is set for that paper alone, while, it is different in the city, as we have shown. Taken in all, there is far more labor required, and a greater expense incurred in the publication of a country newspaper than our readers may imagine. How essential it is therefore, that they shonld be encouraged, and their industy rewarded by every cittzen in the country subscribing for the paper and doing all that can be done towards supporting it.

No better plan has ever been devised to keep butter sweet than to put it in clean jars and cover it with strong brine. No kind of vessel, cask or tub will answer so well as a jar. In this way it can be kept sweet and fresh for twelve months.

NATHALIE'S FIANCE.

"You do not love him, Nathie?"

Nathalie Clifford's rosy lips curled scornfully.

"Why should I?" she demanded. "My fiance requires not that—it is the hand he wishes, not the heart."

"He can be scarcely human then," said the young music teacher, with a sigh. "I should prize the hand only were I sure the heart went with it."

Nathalie colored, and her eyes were bent upon the carpet modestly.

"Nathie," he added, "I must say farewell!"

The tinge of carmine faded from her face and she grew pale as ashes.

"Must you say farewell?" she faltered. "Why must you say farewell? I can not spare you—my lessons—you have not taught me——"

"But you have taught me," he passionately interrupted, "taught me the sweetest, holiest lesson mortal may ever learn. I was presumptuous, Nathie—you so far above me in wealth and social position—but I have dared to love you; and to stay and see you become another's bride would be the keenest torture. I must go—there is no other way."

She did not speak, and he resumed: "I cannot ask you to return my passion, much less ever to be my wife; and it is best that I should go away at once, and bear my pain as best I may, alone. Nathie—queen of my soul—farewell forevmore!"

And raising her hand to his lips, he turned to leave the room. That seemed to rouse her, and with a low cry she sprang forward.

"O Charles!" she pleaded, "do not go like this—I cannot let you!"

"Nathalie! can it be possible you love me?" cried the music teacher eagerly, turning toward her, while every feature showed his exultation.

Nathalie's cheeks were crimson, but she slipped her hands in his, whispering timidly:

"Yes I do love you."

For one brief, happy moment the strong arms of her lover were around her, and then the cold tones of her father's voice, measured and stern, fell on her ears:

"Mr. Gilbert—Nathalie—what is the meaning of this scene?"

The music teacher released her, and was about to speak, when Mr. Clifford added:

"I wish to speak with you a moment, sir—please go with me to the library."

The music teacher quietly obeyed.

"Now, sir," said Mr. Clifford, in tones of ire, "I want an explanation."

"And you shall have it, sir," was the reply. "Frankly, then, I love your daughter, and I believe she returns my passion."

"Do you expect to marry her?" demanded Mr. Clifford, sneeringly.

"I do, sir."

His questioner appeared enraged.

"Well, sir, you never will!" he thundered. "My daughter become a music teacher's wife indeed! Your impudence is only equaled by your cool audacity."

"But, sir——"

"Don't you presume to answer me. Here's your tuition fee—the quarter ends to-day. Now, sir, be off before I send for the police."

Bowing low, Charles Gilbert put his money in his pocket, and hastened from the house.

Then followed weary, hopeless days to Nathie—days when every thought of happiness seemed hollow mocking—when joy seemed fled forever.—Burying her anguish up from mortal sight, it preyed upon her frame the more, and while the roses vanished from lip and cheek, a wierd unnatural brightness dawned within her eyes that after a time alarmed her father, harsh as he was.

"Nathie," he asked at last, why do you look so pale? Where is the pretty color that used to make you beautiful?"

The mute, reproachful glance she gave him for answer pierced him to the heart, and what he might have done is problematical, had he not just a half hour later received a missive that changed the current of his thoughts.

This letter was from Charles Wyeth, the son of his old friend, and Nathie's fiance. It simply said the writer would arrive next day.

The next day came and with it two gentlemen, one of whom was recognized by Mr. Clifford as Charles Gilbert, and the other he thought must be the son of his old friend.

Bowing stiffly to the music teacher, Mr. Clifford seized his companion, escorting him in triumph to the parlor, although the gentleman was evidently surprised.

Improving the opportunity, the music teacher stole silently along the passage to the music-room, where he could hear Nathalie's voice wailing out the plaintive strains of an old ballad. Then there was one glad cry, and Nathie's pretty head rested against his throbbing heart.

"Nathalie!" he tenderly exclaimed after the first transports were over, "I wish you to take back the words you uttered once. Darling, will you do it?"

Her eyes looked up to his in wonder.

"And what were they?" she asked.

"You said you did not love Charles Wyeth. He now has come to claim you, and I hope that you will try to love him just a little."

"How can I love Charles Wyeth, loving you?" she murmured.

"You cannot help it, darling, for I am none other than Charles Wyeth. I feared you would not care for me, and so I took this way to win you. Do you forgive me, dearest?"

Before she could reply her father entered, followed closely by the stranger.

"Look there!" roared Mr. Clifford, pointing to the tableau. "See what your precious friend is doing! Look at him with his arm around your fiance!"

"It's all a sad mistake——"began the other.

"Yes, 'tis a sad mistake that should bring him here—the pup he cried with rising indignat "The scoundrel has already been bidden the house, and now——"

Stepping forward desperately, th guest he would have waved his hand and interrupted him in turn:

"He is the real Charles Wyeth!" he exclaimed, "and I am nothing but his secretary."

For an instant Mr. Clifford did not say a word. His thoughts were far too deep for utterance.

"The deuce!" he cried at last, "I don't believe it!"

The quondam music-teacher handed him some papers. When he had read them he looked queer.

"I say, young man, why did't you reveal yourself before?" he asked.

"You wouldn't let me," was th answer. "Besides, I wished to gain Nathalie's love without her knowing who I was. My full name—Charle Gilbert Wyeth—aided me in doin this; and if you were deceived it was because you would not hear a word of explanation. I now suppose that I may have her."

"I don't know," was the rejoinder. "Perhaps she will not like you now."

But Nathalie's happy look was all the answer he required.

SUMMER DRINKS.

What they are Made of and How to Make Them.

SODA CREAM.—For the hot weather a delicious drink—soda cream—can be made in this wise: Two and a half ounces of tartaric acid, three pounds of white sugar, two quarts of water, white of three eggs, one teaspoonful of sassafras, lemon, vanilla, pineapple, or any flavoring essense one desires. Put the acid, sugar and water together, in a porcelain or delf saucepan, and let just come to a boil; add the whites of the eggs, beaten to a stiff froth; boil it just four minutes, stirring it every moment; strain; add the essence when cold, bottle it tightly. When it is desired for use, turn two tablespoonfuls of it into half a tumbler of ice water, and add to it one third of a teaspoonful of soda, stir up and drink as soon as it foams. This makes a delicious drink, and is not expensive.

SPRUCE BEER.—As the season is at hand when pleasant summer drinks, free from alcoholic influence, are frequently brewed by the house wife or the well brought up daughters, who ought to be taught a little of every thing in the way of household duties—why append the following recipe, which is claimed to be excellent: Take three gallons of water of blood warmth, three half-pints of molasses, a tablespoonful of essence of spruce, and the like quantity of ginger; mix well together with a gill of yeast; let it stand over night, and bottle in the morning. It will be in good condition to drink in twenty-four hours. It is a palatable wholesome beverage.

What Women Eat.

It is a popular belief that women eat nothing. It is of course conceded that they sustain life by the consumption of some article of nourishment; but eating, in the whole acceptance of the word, is supposed to be foreign to female nature. The fallacy is founded and sustained by women themselves, who during the affected period of their lives, cultivate small appetites as being of semi-angelic construction. When this pernicious nonsense is conscientiously carried out, the results upon the would be Angels are squalor, red noses, certain loss of vigor, general limpidness, and some other consequences. But as a rule, the small appetites at the fashionable tables are exhibited by those shrewd girls whose natural and healthy wants have been thoroughly appeased by secret stuffing. Need we refer our reader to the historical poem concerning Violante in the pantry, gnawing of a mutton bone, reminding them how she gnawed it, how she clawed it, when she found herself alone!

All this is a direct deceit, however, practised upon unsophisticated old bachelors, who, when they have made the dainty creatures theirs, find out by the butcher's book an occular proof of what sturdy trencher-women they have married. Watch a healthy girl at supper, during the intervals of dancing. She consumes by installments four times as much as her partner, and seems, and is, none the worse for it. Our experience tells us that women eat in proportion to their weight, as much as men, and are no more fairies in this respect than in the matter of weight.—Appletons Journal.

TO DRIVE RATS AWAY.—A correspondent of the Germantown Telegraph says: "Being sadly plagued with rats about my house and farm buildings, I tried in vain to catch them; they are too cunning to be trapped, and to lay poison I dare not for fear of killing my dogs, cats and hogs, and to wait for them with a gun was a loss of too much time. At last I purchased two goats, which I kept about my fold, barn and stables, the pig-sties being in the fold. In a short time the rats emigrated—they evacuated the place, cleared right out, every one of them, and I have not seen a single rat about the place for upward of three years; but my neighbors, who are within eighty rods, have plenty of all sizes and ages."

TO REMOVE PERSPIRATION ODOR.—Procure some of the compound spirits of ammonia, and put about two tablespoonsful in a basin of water. Washing the face, hands and arms with this, leaves the skin as clean, sweet and fresh as any one could wish. The wash is perfectly harmless, and very cheap. It is recommended on the authority of an experienced physician.

AN AUTOGRAPH LETTER.—Talleyrand used to be worried about his autograph, and to one of his persecutors he thus wrote: "Will you oblige me with your company to dinner on Wednesday next at eight o'clock? I have invited a number of exceedingly clever persons, and do not like to be the only fool in the lot."

BROILING MEATS a beef-steak, whenever the coals blaze up from the drippings, a pinch of fine salt thrown upon them will instantly extinguish the flames. By carefully attending to this matter, you may have your broiled steak or chicken crisp, but not scorched, and juicy, yet well done.

REMEDY FOR INSECT STINGS.—A remedy for the sting of wasps, bees, etc., that often proves effectual, is simply to hold a chest key or any hollow key over the place stung, press it hard into the flesh for a minute or so, and when taken off, the poison will be on the surface of the flesh and do no harm. A thimble with a tight top will do, but not quite as well.

TO REMOVE WARTS.—To remove warts, dissolve an ounce of white vitriol in five tablespoonfuls of water, put into a vial, and rub the warts three or four times a day, and oftener if convenient. In two weeks they will be gone, without pain or scar. Other remedies are to moisten the tops of the warts once a day with creosote, or burn a piece of linen or cotton on any piece of steel and rub the moisture left by the burning on the warts, repeating the operation three or four times.

HOME-MADE CEMENT.—There is a first-rate home-made cement for filling up cracks in an old stove or range. The ingredients are wood-ashes and salt, equal proportion in bulk of each, little less of salt; reduce to a soft paste with cold water, and fill cracks when the range or stove is cool. The cement will soon become perfectly hard. Fire-clay (obtained at the stove-dealers) will sometimes answer, but this home-made cement is always at command, where wood is the fuel used.

PACKING EGGS.—The Poultry Standard says: "In packing eggs put the large end down. The vitality of eggs packed this way is two to one, if packed the small end down. Mr. Wright, the celebrated author, says that repeated experiments have demonstrated the fact to his entire satisfaction, and that 'eggs a

The lady was taken aback. Her sense of flattery, however, after a moment, got the better of her judgment, and she bade him go his way in peace.—New Orleans Picayune.

☞ The democracy of California have held their convention, and have wisely renominated Governor Haight, an able, experienced and well tried statesman. In the platform adopted they demand a rule of strict construction to the whole Constitution including the amendments; the ku klux bill is denounced in bitter terms; the resolution on the tariff declares that they "are in favor of a tariff for revenue only;" they declare their unqualified disapprobation of all the fostering corruption, wasteful profligacy and reckless madness of the administration. In regard to the amendments to the Constitution, they declare that they regard them "as a settlement in fact of all the issues of the war and that the same are no longer issues before the country."

NISM AND DEMOCRACY.

There are a good many Democrats in Kentucky who act as though they believe there has been no war; who regard nothing as settled by the arbitrament of the sword, and are constantly fighting over dead issues.—These are the Bourbons. They accept nothing. They admit nothing. They are dogmatic and perverse, and ready to impeach every man's Democracy who does not think with them, and believe and see as they do. They hold up their hands in holy horror at "new departures," and talk glibly about deserting the time-honored principles of the party. We frankly admit that these men are honest and true men, and are entitled to their views. The present distinctive difference between a part of the Democratic party of Kentucky and the Democracy in the other States of the Union, is, that the former do not accept as accomplished facts the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments to the Constitution, while the Democracy in other States are marching up to living issues, and leaving the dead past to bury its dead. Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Maine, Iowa, Tennessee, Missouri, Arkansas and California have already led off in the line of the "new departure," as it is called; and wherever the Democracy have spoken except in Kentucky, in their State conventions, they have sounded the same note. To those who abuse this movement, and denounce as heretics all Kentucky Democrats who favor it, we recommend the following words addressed by Governor Hoffman, of New York, to the Tammany Society:

"The acceptance or non-acceptance of certain amendments which have

Gov. Hoffman is the chosen representative of the Democracy of the great State of New York, and speaks as their mouthpiece. His utterances are therefore entitled to great respect and weight. Likewise has Gen. Geo. B. McClellan spoken in a letter to the same society. He is a man distinguished for his clear-sighted sagacity and sobriety of judgment, and it is said that he and Hoffman represent more truly than any other members of the Democratic party the public feeling in that State; and while such men as these—while whole States are treating the amendments as no longer practical questions, and as having passed out of the arena of politics—portions of the Kentucky Democracy, that do not amount to a corporal's guard in the great national Democratic army, are clamoring "treason" about those who acquiesced in the amendments as accomplished facts, and threatening them with excommunication. We do not care for or heed these attacks. We are members of the Democratic party, and expect to live and die in its faith; but we prefer to be classed with those who grapple with living issues rather than with those who are fighti

n another column we publish a full unt of the terrible and bloody riot occurred in the streets of New rk on Wednesday of last week.—
e occasion of the riot was the march-g of one hundred and fifty Orange-en in procession on that day, it beng the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, which occurred in Ireland nearly two hundred years ago, and which resulted in the defeat and final overthrow of the Catholic James II of England by the troops of protestant William of Orange. The parties to the riot were an infuriated and brutal mob of Irishmen, belonging to the rival Hibernian society, and the police force and several regiments of the militia of New York, who were detailed to protect the Orangemen from the threatened attack of the Hibernians.

The conduct of Mayor Hall, in forbidding the parade of the Orangemen, on the silly pretext that their appearance on the streets in procession would provoke a riot, when it was his duty to use every and all available force—even to the calling out of the militia—to protect any procession while peaceably parading the streets, against all assailants whatsoever, was the conduct of a craven coward or a despicable demagogue. The conduct of Gov. Hoffman in countermanding the order of the Mayor, and furnishing military and police protection to the procession was that of a wise, a just, and a patriotic ruler. Too long has the fair and peerless city of the continent been dominated by mobs. It was time that it should be liberated from the degraded thralldom. We are inclined to the opinion that the two or three sharp vollies fired by the militia on the 12th instant emancipated New York then and there. At least we hope they did. We detest the Orange organization as heartily as any one, but then we know that an Orangeman possesses all the rights and liberty under the law that we are possessed of, and that he is as much entitled to the protection of the law as we are.—If the parading of an Orange society is obnoxious to the members of the Hibernian society, the latter are not compelled to witness the parade, to place themselves in the way of insult, to arm themselves, to seek and attack the procession. In so doing they brought reproach upon Catholicism, disgrace upon the Irish character, and outlawry upon themselves. It was in the wanton and deliberate violation of law, in the wanton and deliberate act of committing murder, that half a hundred of the Hibernians were shot down by the guardians of the law and the public peace; and the unanimous verdict of all right-thinking people will be: "Served them right."

☞The New Departure is life to the Democracy, and death to the Radicals. They squirm under it like a snake with a dose of tobacco juice.

GREEN AND ORANGE.

A Bloody Sequel to the Battle of Boyne ---Terrible Riot in New York City on the 12th Inst.---56 Killed and 150 Wounded---&c., &c., &c.

NEW YORK, July 12.—As early as eight o'clock this morning crowds of Orangemen were collected around their head quarters, corner of Twenty-ninth street and Eighth avenue, where the procession was to start from. In the building on the corner, where two of the lodges hold their meetings, were members to the number of about two hundred together with a few women. Most of the men were Orange scarts, and had revolvers and swords about them. The police to the number of four hundred arrived about half-past ten o'clock, under the lead of Inspectors Jameson and Walling, and placed one squad on Thirtieth street and Eight avenue, another on Twenty-eighth street, and a small corps on Twenty-ninth street, about half way down the block on both sides of the avenue, to prevent any one not members of the Orange fraternity from entering the lines.

Toward two o'clock, the neighborhood of the Orange head-quarters became intensely crowded, and the police had much difficulty in keeping the mob within bounds.

About half past two, the Orangemen formed on Twenty-ninth street below Eighth avenue, and at the same time the Twenty-second Regiment, under Colonel Porter, marched past and formed a line on Eighth avenue, where they loaded with ball cartridges. Next came the Sixth Regiment, which took up its position to the north of the Twenty-second.

The police were on the east side of the street, and the military on the west and it would seem to be the intention to have the Orangemen march between two files. They presented a very small appearance, and numbered scarcely two hundred. They have two banners, one the stars and stripes, the other banner bearing a picture of William of Orange on horseback, and a small one with the inscription, "American Freemen, fall in." After waiting some time for a band of music, it at last arrived, and the line formed.

Three o'clock the signal for starting was given. The procession started and was twice attacked by the rioters who were quickly put to flight by the police. A large number of the rioters were clubbed and taken prisoners. At Twenty-sixth street the Ninth Regiment charged the mob with fixed bayonets. Several persons were killed and wounded, among them one woman. Colonel Fisk was shot through the ankle. Captain Spencer, of the Ninth, was killed by his own men, while firing a volley into the rioters. Lieutenant Page, of the Ninth Regiment and advertising agent of the Grand Opera house, was mortally wounded.

Between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets the mob fired three shots at the procession. The military returned the fire, killing eight and wounding thirteen. Two boys and a lady were shot. Sixteen citizens and three soldiers were killed coming down the avenue. At the corner of Twenty-third street, the Eighty-fourth regiment fired upon the mob, killing and wounding twelve. One Policeman was shot dead.

NEW YORK, JULY 12.—The fight on Twenty-fourth street and Eighth avenue was severer than at first reported. Over 150 of the mob were certainly killed and wounded. Among the troops known to have been killed besides those already reported are a Captain of the Eighty-fourth and two privates, and a sergeant of the Ninth. Five regiments are resting on arms near Cooper institute.

Just before the Orange procession formed, 300 Hibernians, all armed, with loud cheers, took possession of Twenty-ninth street, immediately opposite the police, who stood quietly waiting for orders. When orders came, the street was cleared in two minutes.

One detachment marched quickly down Twenty-ninth street toward Seventh avenue, two others, one up and one down Eighth avenue, and the Hibernians disappeared. No shots were fired, but here and there a dull crack of locust showed that some unfortunate had found out the thickness of his skull. In an instant the street was empty. Every shop had its shutter up, and nothing but policemen in sight.

General Shaler at first advised the Orangemen not to bear banners, but finally told them to carry what they pleased. The Master then exhorted the brothers to keep the peace and maintain their dignity, and on no account retaliate for blows or insults while on march. Any brother behaving disorderly would be expelled from the Order.

One brother was pointed out as well known to the Irish Catholics, and he was requested not go out, for if he did there would surely be a riot.

Eighth avenue, notwithstanding the dark appearance around, never looked better than this afternoon. Soldiers, two deep, lined the avenue for eight blocks, and a thousand policemen were also present. The pavements, windows, and every inch of room was occupied by a dense crowd.

As soon as the riot began the stores in the upper portion of the city were closed, and in the jewelry and some other stores valuables were removed from the show-windows.

The Post-office is now guarded by the Sixty-ninth Regiment, which although Irish, stand ready to put down the Hibernians.

NEW YORK, July 12–10 P.M.—About forty persons were killed during the riot to-day. The total number of wounded is unknown, but fifteen are known to be mortally wounded.

At the Sixteenth Precinct there were sixteen dead bodies this evening. They were removed to the Morgue. At the Twenty-ninth Precinct there were four dead bodies. At the Morgue there are at present forty bodies.

NEW YORK, July 12—P. M.—The city is quiet. Heavy bodies of police are patroling the city. The troops in the armories are ready to move at a moment's notice. An Orangeman's house was stoned to-night, but the mob fled before the police. Several false alarms of fight have been made.

NEW YORK, July 13–7 A. M.—Every thing is quiet this morning. The troops bivouacked all night, and still under arms, some at the armories and others in the streets. The mounted police still patrol the streets, but no disturbances are apprehended to-day.

NEW YORK, July 13–The list of casualties in the riot of yesterday foot up fifty-six killed and one hundred and fifty wounded. The scenes at the Morgue where the bodies of nearly all the killed are exposed for identification beggars all description.

Testimonials.

I owned a first-class improved Wheeler & Wilson. After giving the Singer a trial I purchased one. I recommend it to all as being better adapted for all classes of work than any machine I have ever used.

MRS. E. J. WYATT.

We are practical with Singer's, Wheeler & Wilson's and other machines. For all classes of work we recommend the former by all means.

J. M. CLYDE.
J. E. TIPTON.
T. H. EASTIN.

My wife had an improved Howe Machine on trial about ten days—also a Singer. After a careful investigation she bought the Singer, and is perfectly delighted, and has had no trouble since its purchase one year ago.

ROB'T CROOKS.

I have used my Singer, which I purchased from Mr. Reese, about four years, and the more I use it the better I like it, and it never has been out of order since I bought it, and I never have found any fabric, heavy or light; threads fine or coarse, but what I could sew it to perfection. I can recommend it to all as the best machine for all classes of work that can be had.

MRS. J. M. JONES.

I purchased an Elias Howe Sewing Machine from Mr. Reese, the agent, and my wife was very well pleased with it until she saw the New Singer Family Machine at work. Its convenience, speed, &c., was so far ahead of the Howe she sold it and bought a Singer, which she thinks is perfection, and we recommend it cheerfully to all as being the best machine for everything in the market.

R. M. YATES.

I have been using the Singer Family Machine for the last fourteen years without any expense, and it sews as well now as when I first got it. I cheerfully recommend it to all who wish to purchase a machine for all classes of work.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

The Grand Commandery of Kentucky—Twenty-Fourth Annual Conclave—List of Officers, Representatives, and Visitors—Dedication of Masonic Temple—Imposing Procession—Le Bal de Beau Monde, &c., &c., &c.

Wednesday and Thursday, July 12 and 13, are days that will long be remembered in Mt. Sterling. They were days given wholly up to the "pomp and pride and circumstance" of Masonry in its most attractive form—Masonry in its holiday mood and attire. The beautifully uniformed Knights Templar, with chapeaux, plumes and glittering swords; the mitres and croziers of the high priesthood; the togas, capes and turbans of the Royal Arch; jeweled collars, illustrated and white lambskin aprons and blue sashes of Master Masons and Entered Apprentices; the military band with braying horns and thundering drums; the densely lined sidewalks and crowded windows; the unloosed rabble of black and white gamins, in front, on the flanks, and to the rear of the half-mile of procession, thickest where the music was, like flies gathered about a sugar-bowl, was a pageant the like of which may never occur again in our streets. The weather, which threatened to be everything but propitious, was variable, like capricious beauty, now smiles, now tears, the weeping spells being fortunately but short and at long and irregular intervals. Wednesday evening and night the clouds appeared to have expended their surplus water, and though Thursday came upon us with clouded brow, moistened eye and quivering lip, yet, on the whole, it behaved itself much better than we expected—thanks to the weather clerk, who doubtless wanted to look upon the great display.

Tuesday evening the Knights commenced arriving, and by Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, the members of the Grand Commandery and visiting Knights were all present. The Twenty-fourth Annual Conclave assembled in the spacious lodge-room of the Temple, and was presided over by the following officers:

The grand Commandery resolved to attend the Grand Encampment of the United States in a body, and appointed the first four Grand Officers a committee to make the necessary arrangements.

The Grand Encampment meets in Baltimore, Md., in September next.

THE GRAND PROCESSION.

Was formed on Main Street, in front of the Temple, and began to move to inspirating strains from Saxton's Military Band, at about 1 o'clock p. m. Thursday. At 2 o'clock the spacious concert hall was crowded densely by members of the fraternity and citizens, a large portion of whom were ladies. After the dedication ceremony by Grand Master Charles Eginton, Rev. John M. Worrall, Past Grand Commander of the Knights Templar, delivered an address characterized for its deep research, impressive delivery, and winning eloquence. Rev. H. A. M. Henderson, who was also to have delivered an address, was too unwell to appear beyond extending an apology for his inability to perform the duty assigned him.

But the great feature of this great occasion was

THE GRAND BALL

On Thursday night at the Temple where winged feet kept time to voluptuous music until the ruddy face of jocund morn chased Terpsichore and her revelers from the joyous scene.—The array of beauty and chivalry transcended the most sanguine hopes of the originators of the affair. Eastern and Central Kentucky were drawn upon for their loveliest and bravest, and right royally did they respond.—The Mountain Pine bent to the Valley Willow, and the Wildwood Rose sweetly leaned to the Garden Crocus. From the mountains and hills they flocked, and loveliness trooped from city and town and blue-grass farmhouse.—Bright eyes took the place of cloud-screened stars, red lips parted only to disclose the pearls beneath, the peach-bloom lay upon smooth, rounded cheeks, and silvery laughter mingled with the music until the looker-on, dazzled with the splendor, had eyes and ears only for the fairy scene and fairy sounds. If there was a bachelor heart unmoved amid the carnival of beauty, it was a heart of flint hard enough to defy drill and powder-charge. We entered the festive hall, cool, calm and unimpassioned, with the cold-blooded business intention of plying our vocation as a reporter, but business thoughts were soon driven from our head, our usually nimble fingers forgot their cunning, and our note-book before us shows a pitiable poverty of notes. What few we find we give to our readers, our only apology to those we have overlooked or failed to note being—they had no business to bewitch us with their loveliness to that extent as made us incapable of "doing those things which we ought to have done."

At this point of our inspection we became bewildered, and only recovered our senses when we found ourselves seated at the superb banquet supplied by the ladies of our county. The tables literally groaned beneath the weight of substantials and dainties. Everything possible to culinary art and science had been achieved for this memorable occasion, and a feast fit for the gods was the consequence.

On the whole, our people are to be congratulated for their display of hearty and open-handed hospitality. Homes, hearts and hands were all opened to our visitors, who returned to their several homes delighted with their stay and welcome. We hope that each year will bring some occasion of the kind, for our pride in our people is deep seated and enthusiastic, and we would be glad to have their praises chanted from the mouth of Big Sandy to Mills' Point.

☞The Maysville Republican says: "The Mt. Sterling Sentinel publishes an original poem, the 'Voice of the lyre.' Its author uses the personal pronoun throughout." And the editor of the Republican requested us to suppress his name when he sent us the poem.

The Daughters' College.

This popular and favorite institution of learning for young ladies, located at Greenville Springs, near Harrodsburg, Ky., begins its next annual session on the third Monday in September, and closes in June of next year.

The learned and zealous faculty, Prof. John Augustus Williams, President; the beautiful and retired situation of the grounds and buildings; the proverbial healthfulness of the location—all conspire to make the Daughters' College one of the most desirable institutions of learning in the State, as well as a charming home and residence for the pupils.

In addition to the usual college curriculum, the popular Normal system, which has been and is a distinguishing feature of the Daughters', gives peculiar and solid claim to the consideration of parents and guardians.

The Daughters' College was instituted in 1856, and has been favored with constantly increasing patronage. Its graduates are numbered in nearly every State of the South and West.—We notice in the graduating class of the year just closed, the names of Misses Nannie O. Johnson and Muggie P. Oldham, of this county. For terms, &c., address the President, Prof. John Aug. Williams, Harrodsburg, Ky.

Shooting!—Narrow Escape!—On Wednesday night, about 10 o'clock, we were aroused from our slumbers by the discharge of a pistol in front of our residence. On investigation we found that the pistol had been fired directly at the house, the ball entering the front part of the building, passing dirtctly through the bedroom, occupied by our wife and child, penetrating the bedstead, in which she and her child were sleeping, and tearing away a large portion of one of the posts, scattering some of the fragments into an adjoining room. We think this matter should be investigated, and the parties, if they can be found, should be made to suffer the full extent of the law for their recklessness.—Owensboro Shield 14th.

Live Stock Markets.

Monday Evening, July 17.

BRIGHTON PENS.

The arrivals of live stock at these yards for the past week compare with the two preceding weeks as follows:

	July 17	July 10	July 3
Cattle	1,120	925	1,550
Sheep	350	560	670
Hogs	1,840	1,380	2,490

Beef Cattle—The market opened with liberal offerings, a considerable number being left over from last week. The supply was considerably in excess of the demand, and the market ruled heavy throughout the day, though no material decline was established.—The cattle remaining in the pens were mainly Cherokee and Texas cattle. We quote common $3@3 50; fair, $3 75@4; good, $4 25@4 50; prime butchers' stuff, $4 75 per cental gross.

Sheep—The arrivals were light, hardly equal to the demand, and the market ruled very firm at $3@$4 per cental gross, as in quality. Lambs sold at $1 75 to $3 per head.

Hogs—The market closed firm, with a demand about equal to the supply. We quote light to heavy averages $4 50@4 60 per cental gross.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A FEW WORDS TO THE LADIES.

Many ladies, particularly mothers nursing, complain of a tired, listless feeling, or complete exhaustion, on arising in the morning. On the wife and mother devolves the responsibility of regulating the duties of the household. Her cares are numerous, and the mental as well as the physical powers are frequently called into requisition. She often finds her slightest occupation a weary task and existence a burden, while at the same time she has no regular disease. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, if resorted to at this period, will prove an unfailing remedy for this annoying lassitude. The effects of this potent agent are soon seen in the rosy cheek and elastic step of the head of the family, as with restored health and renewed spirits she takes her accustomed place in the family circle. If this friend in need be regularly used, those depressing symptoms will never be complained of, and not only would lassitude not be experienced, but many diseases following its advent ... medical agent it has no equal ... ng flavor and healthful effe... general favorite. MEDICAL.

CONSUMPTION,
Its Cure and its Preventive, by J. H. Schenck, M. D.

Many a human being has passed away, for whose death there was no other reason than the neglect of known and indisputably proven means of cure. Those near and dear to family and friends are sleeping the dreamless slumber into which, had they calmly adopted

DR. J. H. SCHENCK'S SIMPLE TREATMENT,

And availed themselves of his wonderful efficacious medicines, they would not have fallen.

Dr. Schenck has in his own case proved that wherever sufficient vitality remains, that vitality, by his medicines and his directions for their use, is quickened into healthful vigor.

In this statement there is nothing presumptuous. To the faith of the invalid, is made no representation that is not a thousand times substantiated by living and visible works. The theory of the cure by Dr. Schenck's medicines is as simple as it is unfailing. Its philosophy requires no argument. It is self-assuring, and self-convicting.

The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are the first two weapons with which the citadel of the malady is assailed. Two-thirds of the cases of consumption originate in dyspepsia and a functionally disordered liver. With this condition the bronchial tubes "sympathize" with the stomach. They respond to the morbid action of the liver. Here, then, comes the culminating result and the setting in, with all its distressing symptoms, of

CONSUMPTION.

The Mandrake Pills are composed of one of Nature's noblest gifts—the Podophillum Peltatum. They possess all the blood-searching, alterative properties of calomel, but unlike calomel, they

"LEAVE NO STING BEHIND."

The work of cure is now beginning. The vitiated and mucous deposits in the bowels and in the alimentary canal are ejected. The liver, like a clock is wound up. It arouses from its torpidity. The stomach acts responsively, and the patient begins to feel that he is getting, at last

A SUPPLY OF GOOD BLOOD.

The Seaweed Tonic, in conjunction with the Pills, permeates and assimilates with the food. Chylification is now progressing without its previous tortures. Digestion is painless, and the cure is seen at hand. There is no more flatulence, no exacerbation of the stomach. An appetite sets in.

Now comes the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet given by an indulgent father to suffering man. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup comes in to perform its functions and to hasten and complete the cure. It enters at once on its work. Nature cannot be cheated. It collects and ripens the impaired and diseased portions of the lungs. In the form of gatherings, it prepares them for expectoration, and lo! in a short time the malady is vanquished, the rotten throne that it occupied is renovated and made new, and the patient, in all the dignity of regained vigor, steps forth to enjoy the manhood or the womanhood that was GIVEN UP AS LOST.

The second thing is, the patients must stay in a warm room until they get well; it is almost impossible to prevent taking cold when the lungs are diseased, but it must be prevented or a cure cannot be effected. Fresh air and riding out, especially in this section of country in the fall and winter season, are all wrong. Physicians who recommend that course lose their patients, if their lungs are badly diseased, and yet because they are in the house, they must not sit down quiet; they must walk about the room as much as the strength will bear, to get up a good circulation of blood. The patients must keep in good spirits—be determined to get well.—This has a great deal to do with the appetite, and is the great point to gain.

To despair of cure after such evidence of its possibility in the worst cases, and moral certainty in all others, is sinful. Dr. Schenck's personal statement to the Faculty of his own cure was in these modest words:

"Many years ago I was in the last stages of consumption; confined to my bed, and at one time my physicians thought I could not live a week; then, like a drowning man catching at straws, I heard of and obtained the preparations which I now offer to the public, and they made a perfect cure of me. It seemed to me that I could feel them penetrate my whole system.—They soon ripened the matter in my lungs, and I would spit up more than a pint of offensive yellow matter every morning for a long time.

As soon as that began to subside, my cough, fever, pain and night sweats all began to leave me, and my appetite became so great, that it was with difficulty I could keep from eating too much. I soon gained my strength, and have grown in flesh ever since.

"I was weighed shortly after my recovery," added the Doctor, "then looking like a mere skeleton; my weight was only ninety-seven pounds; my present weight is two hundred and twenty-five (225) pounds, and for years I have enjoyed uninterrupted health."

Dr. Schenck has discontinued his professional visits to New York and Boston. He or his son, Dr. Jos. H. Schenck, Jr., still continue to see patients at their office No. 15, North Sixth street, Philadelphia, every Saturday from 9 A. M., to 3 P. M.. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged $5. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not.

The directions for taking the medicines are adapted to the intelligence of a child. Follow these directions, and kind Nature will do the rest, excepting that in some cases the Mandrake Pills are to be taken in increased doses; the three medicines need no other accompaniments than the ample instructions that accompany them: First, create appetite. Of returning health hunger is the most welcome sympton. When it comes, as it will come, let the despairing at once be of good cheer. Good blood at once follows, the cough loosens, the night sweat is abated. In a short time both of these morbid symptoms are gone forever.

Dr. Schenck's medicines are constantly kept in tens of thousands of families. As a laxative or purgative, the Mandrake Pills are a standard preparation; while the Pulmonic Syrup, as a curer of coughs and colds, may be regarded as a prophylacteric against consumption in any of its forms.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic, $1 50 a bottle, or $7 50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills, 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

A New-York man last week made a wager that he could run a closed umbrella down his throat to the handle. No sooner had he accomplished the feat than the base wretch who made the bet seized the umbrella by the handle and opened it all the way, clinching it on the catch. He then fled. Of course all efforts to close the umbrella and remove it have been utterly useless, and the poor sufferer walks about with his person distented in a manner extremely painful. These practical jokes are very wrong. Just for the sake of a moment's amusement this man is obliged to carry that umbrella with him to his grave.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold all round the world.

MEDICAL.

The Great Medical Discovery!

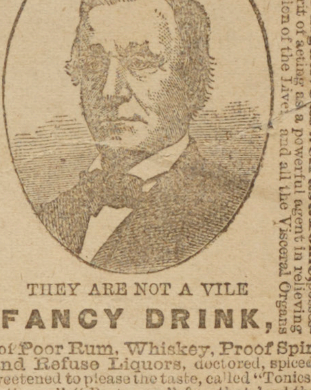
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS,

Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?



For Female Complaints, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal; are safe and reliable in all forms of disease.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics" "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters, according to directions, and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for an incurable case, providing the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

They invigorate the stomach, and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Billious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Copious Discharges of Urine, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms which are the offsprings of Dyspepsia, are cured by these Bitters.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed.

For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French, and Spanish.
